

CAFS

The Saudi-French Business Council has been established in 2002 to strengthen economic and trade relations between the two countries, which are witnessing a remarkable development, where France considered one of the most important trading partners to the Kingdom.