

Amani Abou Zeid

Resident
Representative, African
Development Bank (AfDB),
Egypt

Ms Amani Abou Zeid, Egyptian, joined the African Development Bank (AfDB) in 2005 and currently holds the position of Lead Expert at the Vice Presidency: Infrastructure, Private Sector Development & Regional Integration. Originally a trained telecommunications engineer (B.Sc., Cairo University & ALCATEL), she moved into socio-economic development both academically and professionally as demonstrated by her post-graduate and graduate degrees and honours in socio-economic development (PhD, Manchester University, UK), master degrees of public and business administration (Kennedy School for Government, Harvard University & Université Senghor) Her professional experience include working in Egypt, France, UK, Canada and the level of the African continent. Previously, Ms Abou-Zeid provided advisory services to the Egyptian Ministers of Industry & Foreign Trade, Telecommunications and Information Technology, Speaker of the Egyptian Parliament and President of the Inter- Parliamentary Union (Geneva). She was also Director of Results Monitoring under the Governance component of USAID, Programme Manager at Egypt's Social Fund for Development focusing on Institutional Development, SMEs development, Social Protection as well as Civil Society enhancement and Technical Assistance Manager at ALCATEL, Egypt.

Ms Abou-Zeid is a founding member and was Executive Director of the Université Française d'Egypte project, the Youth Organisation for Population and Development, the Egyptian Chevening Scholars Association, in addition to membership to various national and international organisations. Ms Amani Abou-Zeid has been the recipient of various awards and honours for Leadership and Excellence from the République de France, Harvard University and the European Union.