

Hashem Dezhbakhsh
Interim Dean
School of Business & Management,
AUS

Hashem Dezhbakhsh is a professor of economics with expertise in the areas of econometrics, applied econometrics, applied microeconomics and financial economics. He received his PhD from Ohio State University. He has taught undergraduate, MBA/Executive MBA and PhD level courses at American University of Sharjah, Emory University, Purdue University, Ohio State University, University of Cape Town and University of Akron.

Dr. Dezhbakhsh is the recipient of several awards of distinction including Emory University's Cuttino Award for Excellence in Mentorship, William's Distinguished Teaching Award, GAO's Chief Economist Award for Research, Ohio State University's Outstanding Teaching Award, and Sigma Nu Fraternity's Favorite Faculty Award. Dr. Dezhbakhsh has many years of administrative experience as department chair and undergraduate and graduate program director.

His research has appeared in leading academic journals in economics. His research interests cover a wide spectrum including econometrics methodology, economics of crime, health economics, financial market bubbles, development issues in Africa, government budgeting and performance, and mergers and antitrust issues. His findings have been cited in Newsweek, USA Today, Economist, New York Times, Chicago Sun- Times, Houston Chronicle, Atlanta Journal Constitution, Boston Globe, Chronicle of Higher Education, Congressional Quarterly Researcher and Reuters News. He has also appeared as an expert on many radio stations including NPR and television networks such as CNN, FOX News Channel, and ABC, NBC, CBS and FOX affiliates in Atlanta. He has also been asked to testify in the US Congress on issues related to crime and punishment in the US.